The posters which were posted on the buildings on Aug. 23, concerning the circus, were placed there without the knowledge of the Algonquin Club members and the members regret that so unfortunate a thing should have happened. The club is very much pleased at the attendance and interest shown by the public at the circus and parade.

Abigail Whitman Chapter, D. A. R. held its first meeting for the season with Mrs. Lena Andrews as hostess at her pleasant home on Paris street, Wednesday evening. Seventeen new members were elected. The literary program was "Summer events by the members" and each one told of the events that particularly interested them either at home or abroad. Misses S. B. and Z. S. Prince thought to give only a short talk on the several months they spent in California and the things they saw, but the members were so interested and asked so many questions that it might well be termed a lecture instead of a talk. We have read many a magazine article less instructive. All the members had used their eyes and ears and were able to tell about it. A little shoe factory episode from one who thought she had been nowhere, "Only worked in the shoe shop" gave a needed touch of humor. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

HURRAH! THE OXFORD COUNTY FAIR

Oxford County Fair.

It is now less than one week to the great annual event, the Oxford County Fair, which will be held on the Fair Grounds between Norway and South Paris, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 10, 11 and 12.

The fair this year will be one of the best and is sure to be well attended, as have all those that have passed into history.

The society has been making extensive repairs on the grounds during the past year and they are now in the best condition.

About $1500 have been expended by the society in improvements and repairs around the grounds. The three eating houses and walk at the right of the square have been moved back about 60 feet, making a large square in and around the hall and eating houses. A number of feet have been added at the rear of these buildings and a board fence erected. A new fence has been put up along the race track for about two-thirds, the entire track and has been painted. Eighteen feet of fence have been added to each end of the fence in front of the grandstand by the pulling ground.

A good substantial rail fence has been placed about three feet inside the fence by the track for hitching horses.

Around the grandstand new planking has been put down where needed and the seats are being placed for the races. At the cow shed and horse stables necessary repairs have been made, and the grounds have been raked up and the dead trees removed.

Double Wedding

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carlton J. Bates at Chester, Ct., was the scene Aug. 20th of an unusual society event, the occasion being a double wedding of their two daughters, Miss Grace to Walter George Whitman of Salem, Mass., formerly of Norway, and Miss Maud Elizabeth to Dexter Stillman Phelps, jr., of Hartford.

The ceremony took place in the spacious parlor of the old Colonial home made beautiful with flowers and filled with guests.

The brides and their attendants entered through the library and hall, passing through an aisle of white ribbons, Mrs. Hamilton C. Bates, a sister of the bride, playing the wedding march from Lohengrin as the bridal party descended the stairs, preceded by the ushers, Dudley Redfield, Walter Deacon, William J. Hickmott, jr., of Hartford, Hamilton C. Bates and Frederick Edwards, best man for Mr. Phelps.

Webster Sumner Cushing of Harvard College acted as best man for Mr. Whitman. Following were the four bridesmaids of Miss Maud, Marjorie Brooks of Chester, Ethel Immick, Caroline Merriam, Ethel Olmstead of East Hartford, Miss Maud's maid of honor was her sister Florence, who wore cream crepe meteor, carrying pink roses. Mrs. Frederick Page of New Haven was matron of honor for Miss Grace and wore a gown of blue satin veiled with white marquisette. The bridegrooms entered the room and met their brides as they stood before the officiating clergymen, Rev. Edward O. Dyer of the Congregational church of Chester, and Dr. H. S. Whitman of Portland, Me., an uncle of Mr. Whitman. A reception and wedding lunch followed the ceremony.

The bridal presents for both brides were displayed in two upper rooms which were set apart for them and were many and beautiful.

The brides were beautifully attired in gowns of white Duchesse satin, entraine, trimmed with pearl ornaments and Duchesse lace. They wore long flowing veils fastened with pearls, and carried bouquets of bride roses and lillies of the valley, each bride in turn being given away by her father. Soft music was rendered by the orchestra during the ceremony and during the reception, which was largely attended. Mr. and Mrs. Phelps and Mr. and Mrs. Whitman received, assisted by the parents of the brides, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton J. Bates, Mr. and Mrs. Phelps, sr., of Hartford, Mrs. Bertha Sturtevant, a sister of Mr. Whitman, and Marguerite Bates.

Mrs. Grace Bates Whitman is a graduate of New Haven high school and the Boston School of Physical Culture and has been a very successful teacher. Mrs. Maud Bates Phelps is a graduate of St. Margaret's, class of 1908. Both are well known and popular young women and have a large circle of friends.

Mr. Whitman is assistant professor in the science department of Columbia University, N. Y., during the summer and professor of science at Salem Normal School during the winter. Mr. Phelps is employed in the Dime Savings Bank in Hartford.

Republican Rally.

The Republican Rally held at the Opera House, Tuesday evening, was largely attended, the seating capacity on the floor being well filled.

Lumley Castle Band of South Paris furnished excellent music during the evening.

A. J. Stearns, candidate for the state senator from this district called the meeting to order, making a brief speech in the interest of the party speaking on the issues which came out of the democratic rule, among which were the rum question and finance. Mr. Stearns introduced the speaker, Ex-Governor Bert M. Fernald who was not running for any office under the sun.

Mr. Fernald in opening his remarks payed his compliments to the band for its fine music and to the citizens for the opportunity of addressing the meeting at this time. In the course of his address he stated that one man's vote counted just as much as another's and that he believed in using no ill words or any way toward either party for such is unworthy to be heard before an intelligent audience. During the democratic reign we heard a lot about the condition of finance and the manner in which Plaisted was "seriously embarassed and the state was on the verge of bankruptcy" but in fact the state was never in a better condition and money was forth with coming for all bill as they came due. No estate corporation or business men can settle up their affairs entirely on the 1st day of any one month, for their expenses are running along and coming due.

The Fernald adminstration is charged with building new buildings and additions on some of its overcrowded institutions including its Insane Hospitals and Home for Feeble Minded, and also purchased Hymore farm for orcharding. We knew the state was sound and it was for the best policy of the state to expend the money while the democratic authority thought best to reduce the expenses by reducing pensions of the Old Soldiers and refusing the state allowance for the children's hospital and the state high schools.

In looking up the states who have local option we find from 17 per cent. to 19 per cent. in these states who own their homes while in Maine, a prohibition state we find 49 per cent. owning their homes, as well as having a large amount more of money in the Maine Savings Banks. The real fact is that one-half of the Democratic party are opposed to having saloons. Speaking of Wm. T. Haines, Mr. Fernald said Mr. Haines was to be the next Governor and he is a sincere, honest, successful man and will do just what he says he will do.

The next speaker of the evening Hon. E. J. Hill, Congressman from Connecticut was introduced. He said in opening that he would introduce himself and told how his grandfather, 92 years ago came to Maine as a preacher where he lived and brought up his family and he was proud that his mother was a Maine woman. In the course of his address he told of many instances in Congress where democratic rule was wrong, giving as illustrations the dictations as to voting in many instances. It is wrong for a few men to dictate the price of commodities and we should stand for prohibition and do not hold up free trade. In the McKinley Bill of 1890 farming implements of all kinds were put on the free list but one of the advocates of free steel are not posted when they say, free steel would make farming implements cheaper. It is an old cry that it is not right to impose tariff "except for revenue." We don't want such low wages which would be the result. While in Europe we inquired the wages of many of the women and $1.50 to $6.00 a week were the wages for the laborer, while here in the United States we pay three and four times the wages and we don't want such cheap labor.

In the course of his address he gave many incidents, facts and figures showing the high cost of living abroad which is far higher than in the United States.

Mr. Clifford is a graduate of Bates College in the class of 1908. While at Bates, he took a prominent part in the student activities including literary societies and the Young Mens' Christian Association. His major studies were physics, chemistry and English, in which he attained a high grade.

Since graduation from Bates, Mr. Clifford has had four years of experience in teaching and administrative work, including one year as Principal of the Kingfield High School and the past three years as Principal of the High School at Island Falls, a school of about sixty pupils. His work in this school is highly commended by Superintendent Burrill. His teaching was largely confined to the sciences and English. He took an active interest in athletics, his school winning the championship of the county in basketball and standing only second to Ricker Classical Institute in baseball. Mr. Clifford also succeeded in arousing a strong interest in public speaking. His strength as an educator is further attested by the fact that he was elected President of the High School Department of the teachers' convention of Aroostock County.

Mr. Clifford is twenty-five years of age, a church member, and a member of the Masonic order. The Paris School Board considers itself fortunate to secure his services for the local High School; and in assuming his duties, Mr. Clifford will have the strong support and confidence of many friends.

Question Cleared Up

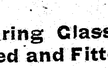

Advertiser Readers Can No Longer Doubt the Evidence.

Again and again we have read of strangers in distant towns who have been cured by this or that medicine. But Norway's pertinent question has always been "Has anyone here in Norway been cured?" The word of a stranger living a hundred miles away may be true, but it cannot have the same weight with us as the word of our own citizens, whom we know and respect, and whose evidence we can so easily prove.

M. M. Kilgore, shoe shop, Danforth street, Norway, Me., says: "I know of no other remedy like Doan's Kidney Pills. I had backache and rheumatic pain for more than a year. My kidneys was the cause of the trouble. Sometimes I was so lame I could hardly stand. I did not rest much and was feeling miserable when I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I got them at Stone's Drug Store, and a few boxes cured me. I never fail to recommend this remedy." 36 37

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cts. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and no other.

A Check Book Makes all Your Money Available at any Moment and You Can Always make the Exact Change When Paying a Bill By Check

When you carry around the currency in your pocket and laboriously count out the money every time you wish to pay a bill, there is the danger that two bills may stick together or perhaps the party you pay may lose a bill and so think you did not pay him enough. Then, too, unless you ask for a receipt each time there is always the likelihood of having to pay the same bill twice. Another inconvenience when paying money is the difficulty of making the exact change, or if you wish to send money away there is the expense of purchasing a Draft or Money Order.

By depositing your money in this Strong National Bank you make it absolutely safe from loss by robbers, fire or accident and yet it is available at any moment. Whenever you desire to use all or any part of it draw a check for the exact amount wanted and either give it or mail it to the party owed. The Bank at the end of the month returns these cancelled checks to you and each check bears the endorsement of the party you paid. By looking over your cancelled checks you can find out instantly when, what for and to whom you paid your money and each check is a receipt in itself for the bill paid.

We invite you to test the truth of these statements by opening an account at this Bank.

Cattle Must be Tested.

Attention is called to the law which requires that all cattle exhibited at the fairs to which the State gives aid shall be tuberculin tested within one year of the time of exhibit. Last year through some misunderstanding many of the exhibitors were not prepared when the time came for exhibiting, and under the circumstances were allowed to exhibit without a certificate. The Commissioner of Agriculture, J. P. Buckley, calls attention to the fact that all must have their animals tested before exhibiting them at the fairs in 1912. Section 11 of Chapter 195 of the Public Laws of 1911 reads as follows:

"Cattle used for dairy purposes or for breeding purposes that are to be shown in competition for prizes, in any state agricultural shows, Bangor, Waterville and Lewiston, shall be tested with tuberculin, within twelve months of the opening date of the exhibition where they are to be shown. Such tests shall be made under the direction of the live stock sanitary commissioner, who shall furnish a certificate of such test, to the owner or owners of such animals. State agricultural associations who receive any aid from the State, shall demand a certificate of test, duly authorized by the live stock sanitary commissioner from owner of cattle that are to compete for prizes in accordance with the above, under penalty of forfeiture of such aid; calves under one year excepted. 36

Some Day.

I once worked for a farmer,
A good old Christian soul,
At four o'clock each morning
Out of my bed I'd roll;
While smoke rolled from the chimney top,
And 'twixt his teeth and cheek,
A goodly quid of black B L
Rolled seven days per week.
Sometimes there'd be an extra job
That needed to be done,
He'd say, a twinkle in his eye,
As if 'twere all in fun;
"We'll finish that up Some Day,
We haven't time to now,
Go harness up them horses
And hitch 'em to the plow,
You tend to them thar handles, boy,
And let the critters sail,
Ef they go wrong don't sing a song,
But pound them on the tail."
Then Sunday would be Some Day
With farmer Jones and I;
Those extra jobs were finished
Ere the light had left the sky;
Then he'd sit him down contented,
With his goodly quid to chew,
Up in my room, mid twilight gloom,
The atmosphere was blue.
Then Sunday would be Some Day,—
Oft times it seemed like two.

In after years I courted
A fair and buxom maid,
And often in the evening
Quite late with her I stayed.
She had not one bad habit,
Not even chewing gum,
But tended right to business;
"And that was going some."
How many times we said goodbye
At parting, "Her and me,"
We done it, well, I cannot tell;
It might be twenty-three;
But when at last we parted
To me she'd always say,
"Don't stay too long, that would be wrong;
But come again some day."
Then Sunday would be Some Day
With Lucy Jane and I,
Strolling o'er the farmstead,
With sunshine in the sky,
When the merry birds were singing,
And the clover all in blow,
Mixed its fragrance with the sunbeams
And my sweethearts' cheeks aglow;
When two lovers strolled together
With two hearts they knew were true;
Then Sunday would be Some Day;
Oft times it seemed like two.

BEEF CALVES MAKE BIG GAINS.

The first great thing to learn in feeding cattle is economy of production. Many farmers in making their calculations as to whether some of their farming pays take no account of labor, writes an Iowa feeder in Orange Judd Farmer. As all labor on my farm is hired and as I never do any manual labor myself, it behooves me in all my farming operations to first of all get my labor down to a straight business proposition.

Years ago I used to feed my cattle corn twice a day until one day I ran across Professor Henry's book and there saw the statement that many cattlemen fed only once a day.

I have in my yards at present 300 head of calves. All are well bred Herefords, bought from one ranch in Nebraska. They were weaned the day prior to shipping and were received Oct. 23. These calves on Jan. 11 were being fed 2,500 pounds of corn and cob meal, 500 pounds of oats, 1,800 pounds of clover or alfalfa hay and 600 pounds of oat straw. The corn and cob meal will be slowly increased so that as the calves increase in size they will get all the grain they can Crossing cows of a coarse description with well selected Shorthorn bulls removes the coarseness and in this way improves the quality of the meat produced by cattle which are descended on the female side from coarse and inferior live stock. The pure bred Shorthorn is of great prepotency and never fails to raise the beef standard of the herd into which it is introduced. The illustration shows a fine Shorthorn bull of pure breeding.

clean up at one meal. There will be no increase in the amount of alfalfa fed.

The 300 Hereford calves on March 28 weighed 700 pounds each. This enormous gain was made possible by the splendid weather. They now each get twelve pounds of shelled corn and six pounds of alfalfa a day.

These calves are fed once a day. The amount of hay and straw to be fed is weighted and put in the racks; then the grain is weighed and put in the boxes. This is always done by 10:30 a. m. One man with team feeds the grain and hay and feeds and attends to hogs by noon. In the afternoon he grinds corn or hauls bedding when necessary. The sheds are bedded down twice a week. He then loads his hay wagon and his grain wagon ready for next day.

In the winter months there are two men, and this work is often divided so as to allow for other work in the afternoon, but from the middle of March until the cattle are sold in the summer one man does it all and has all the sows and other litters to look after as well. Of course he has earlier and longer daylight in these months. This plan also allows the men to have their Sundays free, as by combining forces Sunday morning all work is done by 9 a. m. I do not wish you to infer from this that he or any other man works all kinds of hours. It is a fixed rule on the farm that all work stops at 5:45 p. m.; supper at 6. This rule is never broken even for haying or harvest unless I pay the men overtime.

Many young feeders make the great mistake of trying to push their cattle too rapidly. Never forget that the best and biggest gains are made the first month on the smallest amount of grain. It is not big gains that pay. It is economical gains. Every feeder when he gets his cattle ought to have his ration figured out—that is, his cheapest ration. No two years are alike in this. If clover or alfalfa is worth $7 per ton and corn 50 cents per bushel the ration might be for a 1,000 pound steer, nineteen pounds ear corn and twenty pounds hay, whereas, if the clover or alfalfa is $10 to $12 a ton and corn less than 40 cents a bushel, it might better be a ration of ten pounds clover and twenty-five pounds ear corn. If you have straw or fodder work it into your ration according to quantity or price.

Soiling Crops For Cows.

Soiling crops should be used more extensively by dairymen. In sections of the country where land is very high and the farmer forced to employ every possible means of making it produce as much food as possible soiling is common. This is noticeable in portions of Europe where the cows are kept up most of the time and where every acre must produce a large amount of feed. But while we have pastures and silos we will not be forced to follow soiling. Yet there are many dairymen who could use a few acres of soiling crops very profitably. By using barnyard manure very liberally a few acres in soiling crops would be of great value.

Milk and Butter Fat.

The percentage of fat in the cow's milk is determined by two things—first, the breed and, second, the individuality. The milk flow may be stimulated by feed, but the fat content cannot be affected under normal conditions.

The Oxford County Fair will be on next week Sept. 10, 11, 12. Everything points to a big success. See ads.

The Scrap Book

His Motto.

The young hopeful had secreted some bright buttons in his pocket which came from the automobile show. When Sunday school was well under way he took one out and pinned it on his coat, feeling it an ornament. Unfortunately, when the minister came round to speak to the dear children, his near-sighted eyes were caught by the color.

"Well, Richard, I see you are wearing some motto, my lad. What does it say?"

"You read it, sir," replied Richard, hanging his head.

"But I cannot see. I haven't my glasses, son. Read it so we can all hear you."

Richard blushed. "It says, sir, 'Ain't it hell to be poor!'"—Metropolitan Magazine.

Life.

This life's a mystery.
The value of a thought cannot be told,
But it is clearly worth a thousand lives
Like many men's. And yet men love to live
As if mere life were worth their living for.
What but perdition will it be to most?
Life's more than breath and the quick round of blood.
It is a great spirit and a busy heart.
The coward and the small in soul scarce do live.
One generous feeling, one great thought, one deed
Of good ere night, would make life longer seem
Than if each year might number a thousand days
Spent as this is by nations of mankind.
We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial.
We should count time by heart throbs. He most lives
Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

—Philip James Bailey.

Compromising a Tenor.

Czar Nicholas I. used to walk the streets of St. Petersburg alone wrapped in a large gray cloak. It was forbidden to speak to him, but the czar sometimes forgot that a subject could not obey the prohibition if the emperor addressed him.

Once the czar met in a park the tenor singer of the Italian opera and exchanged a few words with him. The moment the czar was out of sight the police arrested the tenor. That evening the czar attended the opera, where, after a long delay, the manager announced that the tenor could not be found. Nicholas guessed what had happened and sent an aid-de-camp to release the singer.

A few days after the czar again met the tenor and began with an apology:

"I was very sorry"—

"May I implore your majesty," the Italian exclaimed, "not to speak to me? Your majesty will compromise me with the police."

MacVeagh Adjourned the Court.

On one occasion Wayne MacVeagh succeeded in adjourning the supreme court before the usual hour. Mr. MacVeagh never remained in Washington overnight if he could help it, and on this occasion he greatly desired to take the 4 o'clock train for Philadelphia. Although talking to the court, he kept his eye on the clock, and at 3:45, giving himself just enough time to reach the station, he ceased his argument and said: "May it please your honors, I move that the court do now adjourn. I want to catch the 4 o'clock train for home." The cool audacity of the request seemed to paralyze the justices, but the chief justice made the customary order without a protest, and Mr. MacVeagh got his train.

Willing to Help.

Miss Mary Sasseen was making the race once for state librarian in Kentucky. In the interests of her candidacy she reached a town in the blue grass section on the very afternoon that a Confederate monument was being unveiled.

As the daughter of a southern soldier and also as a prominent woman of the state Miss Sasseen was welcomed at the ceremonies and given a place with the guests of honor on the platform.

After the invocation all hands sang "Dixie." Miss Sasseen, who had a good voice, joined heartily in the singing. A few minutes later the master of ceremonies made an announcement that she did not catch, and immediately one or two quavering voices struck up the opening lines of "The Bonnie Blue Flag." Grieved inwardly that so few in such a large assemblage should know the words and music of that famous southern war song, Miss Sasseen rose and joined in lustily. She was halfway through the first verse when the master of ceremonies tapped her timidly on the shoulder.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but this was intended for a duet."—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

No Reason For Two Trips.

Patrick's wife was ailing, and Patrick put on his Sunday best and walked four miles to the doctor's house to tell him about her.

"Now," said the doctor when he had heard all Patrick had to say and had prepared some medicine, "here is something for your wife. I've written the directions on the bottle, and I want her to try it faithfully for a fortnight. Then if it doesn't relieve her come to me again and I will give you another prescription."

"Now, docther, see here," said Patrick, standing straight and looking grimly at the physician, "if you have your doubts o' this curin' Mary, as it's ivident you have by the way you spake, why don't you give me first what you're goin' to give me last?"

See H. L. Horne's ad. on the last page. He is advertising a 10 per cent. reduction sale during the week of the fair.

Grapes Spiced and Candied.

Mingled with pears and peaches in a deep glass dish, grapes make the most graceful of desserts.

Grape Jelly—Put the grapes into a large double boiler and add no water. If you have no boiler large enough, pack them into a stone jar and set in a pot of warm water, bringing it slowly to a boil. Cover closely and cook until the fruit is broken to pieces. Drain without squeezing, but get out every drop of juice by shaking the bag and stirring up the contents once or twice with a spoon.

Measure the juice and allow a pound of sugar to each pint of liquid. Put the sugar into flat pads and set in the open oven to heat gradually, stirring now and then to prevent scorching. Put the juice into a porcelain-lined or enamel kettle and bring quickly to a boil. Long cooking darkens it. Boil 20 minutes after it begins to bubble; stir and boil one minute to throw up the scum. Take this off and pour the jelly into glasses set in a shallow pan of hot water, rolling each, this to wet the inside before the jelly goes in.

When the jelly is cold pour melted paraffin upon it and fit metal tops upon the glasses.

Spiced Grapes—Seed the grapes and squeeze out the pulp. If you have a vegetable press you may simplify the process by cutting each grape across and when all are cut pressing the mass, seeds and all, in the press. The seeds will not pass through the fine holes.

Weigh the seedless pulp and allow half as much sugar as you have pulp. That is for six pounds (or pints) of the one allow three pounds of sugar. Mix with the above quantity of the sugared pulp a teacupful of vinegar, three tablespoonfuls of ground cinnamon, and one tablespoonful of ground cloves, tied up in bags of cheesecloth. Return to the fire and boil down to the thickness of mush. It should be so thick that it will not run on a plate when you test a spoonful of it. Take out the spice bags and turn the mixture into jelly glasses, or better still, small fruit jars with screw tops. Seal while hot. It will be good to eat in a week and keep well.

Candied Grapes—Put a pound of sugar and a cupful of water over the fire. Heat gradually until the sugar is fully melted. Then boil steadily, skimming often but not stirring, lest the syrup should granulate. At the end of half an hour drop a little into cold water. It it becomes brittle and clear it is done.

Set in a pan of boiling water and add a tablespoonful of juice. Have ready selected large, sound, ripe grapes—sweetwater and black Hamburgs are best—washed and dried in soft cloth. They must be perfectly dry. Run the end of a clean pointed wire into each to coat it well and dexterously loosen it from the wire to lay it upon waxed paper to dry.

A slender new hatpin is good for this purpose. It should pierce the grape just far enough to get a fair hold. If it pass through it the juice, exuding, will soften the hardening syrup.

Heaped upon green vine leaves in a pretty dish, these candied grapes give a dainty touch to a dinner or evening party dessert.

Children's Column.

Bethel, Me., Aug. 26, 1912.

Dear Editor and Children—Why, does the paper come without any letters from you children? I noticed the Children's Column empty in some week's Advertisers. There must be lots of girls and boys also who could write for the children's space after the Editor has kindly asked you and is looking for the letters. You ought every one of you to write at least often enough to keep the space kindly allotted to you.

I am going to give you all a riddle to guess and see how many will get the answer, and you who know good ones, or any send them in when you write. Perhaps it will help to get the little folks interested.

This is the riddle:—

Two-thirds of a cross and a circle complete,
And two semi circles a perpendicular doth meet,
An angle triangle which stands on two feet,
And two semi-circles and a circle complete.

INA MAY BROWN.

Bethel, Aug. 26, 1912.

Dear Editor:—My aunt, Rose P. Houghtaling of Philadelphia has been here visiting. She is good to us. She told us told us about the great preacher, Russell H. Conwell. I will send you some verses about her mother who is dead:

If I should roam from shore to shore,
And search this wide world o'er and o'er,
And view each face I daily meet,
One loved of all I could not greet.

Though kind and loving all might be
Among the thousands I might see,
That one familiar smiling face
Time from my mind can ne'er efface.

That gentle, loving, soothing voice,
That ever made my heart rejoice,
Oh! never more can welcome me,
Amid the throngs on earth I see.

Then I must wait till God says come,
And greet her in a Heavenly home;
There may we meet—soon meet again—
And find no sorrow, death or pain.

The loved of earth will there be gathered,
Never more by death be severed,
But in bliss forever reign,
To be parted ne'er again.

BLANCHE ELLEN KIMBALL.

Looking Backward

In Otisfield.

No. 4.

A retrospect of Otisfield in the third decade of the century shows a period of much interest to the student of political history as well as of the history of the progress of improvement in domestic science and arts of every day life.

My first memories are of the large wool-spinning wheel and the small flax-spinning wheel, which for a good part of the year were kept busily in use by day and often in the evening. Every housewife was supposed to be a good spinner of woolen yarn and skilled in the art of "doubling and twisting." Then came the setting up of the big old hand-loom and the drawing into the sley of the warp for a long web of cloth and the winding the bobbins with filling to fit the hand shuttle sometimes called spooling.

All the cloth woven by our mothers and grandmothers in the hand-loom designed for men's and women's clothing was dyed and dressed at the "Fulling-mill" of William Bolster at Bolster's Mills, and very handsome and durable cloth it was. It was colored mostly a handsome brown and was worn by the men and boys for "go-to-meeting" garments.

Farmers and their sons wore for working, garments of mixed blue and white cotton and woolen cloth, usually striped, woven "waled" or similar to the diagonal weft of fancy cloths of this day. Many women and girls were handsomely clad in winter dresses of light or medium weight goods, homespun and woven in the domestic loom, dyed green or brown at the fulling mill.

That industry was long ago superseded by the introduction of factory-made goods, satinets and cassimers for men and all sorts of fancy weaves for women. The old fashioned loom is practically abolished except occasionally for weaving rag carpets.

The changes noted above in domestic customs and employments of women during the century past, invention and use of the sewing-machine and other time-saving household implements is among the notable events of this progressive age.

Otisfield had a large share in the exciting agitations of questions of moral and political reform. Two great powers by which the public conscience of the nation had become grievously debauched were the principal subjects of controversy in public and private councils and society and the Christian protestant church were divided into opposing factions by the discussions of the right and the wrong of these monstrous corrupters of public opinion and national morals. I refer to the Slave-power and the Rum-power.

During my early boyhood these subjects were the theme of discussion by the fireside and in the forum of public debate. The two great National political parties, the Whig and Democratic, had become so subservient to the behest and control of the Slave-power in Congress and in national conventions that thousands of the best men of those parties, protesting against the cruelties of human slavery had withdrawn their support of the old party machines, and repudiated their influence and authority over them, and in response to the demand of enlightened conscience and the principles of human freedom claimed to exist in our great charter of Liberty, the constitution, it became a necessity for them to formulate a declaration of human rights and a platform of principles upon which a new party might be founded and act for the education of the public mind in opposition to the encroachments of the slave-power in American politics.

Otisfield was duly inspired with the progressive ideas of the anti-slavery agitators and participated largely in the results of the educative discussions presented by the eloquent public orators of the day.

The period from 1840 to 1850 and to the Civil War has never been exceeded by any other in the heat and violence of political agitations and disruption of political parties. The Whigs and Democrats were the Standpatters and the Liberty, Free-Soil and the Republican parties of Fremont and Lincoln were the true Progressives in national politics.

Well, what did Otisfield have to do with the general upheaval in those days? In the 30s commenced the decided severing of political bonds, and, even the parting of the "blest tie that binds hearts in Christian love" was a frequent incident to the fierce agitation of matters of conscience in the churches.

At first the disaffection between brethren was slight, but soon the relations became so strained that repudiation of party obligations, and overt secession were declared, and a select few chose to embrace the cause of the reformers with persecution and obloquy that follows all who are wiser than their generation.

The first citizens of Otisfield who voted a Free Soil ticket in a national election were John Hancock and Job Morton, both deacons of the Congregational church, and Otis Fernald, a prominent Free Will Baptist. It was, I think, in 1844 that this incident occurred, and James G. Birney was the candidate of the new party for whom these votes were cast. Two or three prominent citizens of Otisfield were looked up to and regarded by many of the conscienceless, timeserving voters as arbiters of their course of action, but they could not stop the revolution.

Early in the history of the reform movement, large public meetings were held at the Free Meeting-house at East Otisfield for exploiting the doctrines and principles of the anti-slavery party. One of the best speakers that I remembers in any of those meetings was Woodbury Davis, who was, a few years later, after the accession of the Republican party to power in the state, appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court.

On several occasions negro fugitives from slavery were procured by the leaders of the movement, who told their story of experience in slavery, and, I believe, assisted materially to advance the anti-slavery sentiment in Otisfield.

While the clergy and laity of the Congregational church were confessedly opposed to slavery, they assumed to follow a conservative policy, and opposed any disruption of the old order of things. The church people were numerous at that time in Otisfield, and had a commanding influence in the consideration of political issues.

The most important meeting for the discussion of the slavery question in the town was held in the summer in the early 40s at the new Congregational church on Otisfield Hill. A number of leading citizens of the country were in attendance for two days, if I remember correctly. Some of them were Gen. Samuel Fessenden, Wm. Pitt Fessenden, Gen. James Appleton of Portland, Henry Carter and Dr. Nathaniel Pease of Bridgton, Col. Miller of Vermont and others, all powerful speakers, and all exceptional advocates of Emancipation. It was, probably, the greatest public assemblage of gifted orators ever in Otisfield at one time. The large church was crowded by an intelligent and sympathetic audience. The interest in the subject of the discussion was so great that students of Bridgton Academy journeyed on foot to Otisfield to hear those mighty orators. The effect of all such discussions was favorable to the cause of human liberty and justice.

An esteemed contributor to these columns, sometime since wrote an inspiring article on the "Highlands of Otisfield." I desire to enlarge on that subject in a future communication which will involve a narrative of some of the most interesting incidents of former times in the old town. G. F.

Large Estate in Probate Court.

Lawrence Tucker of Andover died May 16th and his estate is now on its way through the Probate Court. He was a city summer guest of the above town and he liked so well he made it his legal home.

The inventory of his property is the second largest that ever came to this court. The estate of the late Joseph Robinson, the Oxford wool-cloth manufacturer, is said to have been larger.

Mr. Tucker's estate inventories $659,287.95 of which $2,000 is the assessed value of his Andover real estate.

Mr. Tucker originally come from Boston and leaves no relatives, the nearest are cousins, a dozen or more, and to these he gives nothing in his will. The bulk of the property goes to Victorine (Boudreau) Blanchard, who was born in Hudson, Mass., who has administered great care to him during several years of illness. To her he bequeathes all real estate, horses, autos, live stock, furniture, etc., both in this state and in Massachusetts, also he leaves in trust $200,000.00, the income to be paid to her quarterly or oftener if needed. He wishes Robert H. Gardner of Gardiner, Me., and Alfred Bowditch of Boston to be the trustees, also executors of the will and they to serve without bonds. Several thousand dollars were given to members of his household including $1,000.00 to Malcomb Gregg of Andover.

There are probably a dozen or fifteen of these, some receive $2,000.00, none less than a thousand. The servants of several relatives were remembered and a trust was made for the support of his mother's maid and $1,000 00 were left to the Boston Athletic Association Employees' Fund.

After the trusts have been carried out one-fourth of the trust funds are to go to the Animal Rescue League of Boston, if it then is in existence and the other three-fourths or the whole goes to the "Massachusetts General Hospital to be used by said hospital so far as expedient for the treatment of venereal diseases and otherwise for the general purpose of said hospital."

Inheritance and continuation taxes are to be paid out of the estate and the income of the trust funds is to be paid into the hands of the beneficiaries, but none in anticipation and the claims of husbands or creditors are not to be recognized.

DANGER PERIOD OF WOMANS' LIFE FROM 45 to 50

Interesting Experience of Two Women—Their Statements Worth Reading.

Asheville, N.C.—"I suffered for years with female trouble while going through the Change of Life. I tried a local physician for a couple of years without any substantial benefit. Finally after repeated suggestions to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I quit my physician and commenced using it with the happiest results. I am today practically a well woman and anxious to contribute my mite towards inducing others to try your great medicine, as I am fully persuaded that it will cure the ailments from which I suffered if given a fair chance.

"If you think this letter will contribute anything towards further introducing your medicines to afflicted women who are passing through this trying period, it is with great pleasure I consent to its publication."—Mrs. JULIA A. MOORE, 17 East St., Asheville, N. C.

The Case of Mrs. Kirlin.

Circleville, Ohio.—"I can truthfully say that I never had anything do me so much good during Change of Life as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Before I had taken one half a bottle of it I began to feel better, and I have continued taking it. My health is better than it has been for several years. If all women would take it they would escape untold pain and misery at this time of life."—Mrs. ALICE KIRLIN, 358 W. Mill St., Circleville, Ohio.

The Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. At such times women may rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Oxford County Finances.

The present Board of County Commissioners deserve credit for their efficient and conservative management of the County finances the past three years. The following figures from the annual reports of the county officers are suggestive:

Dec. 31, 1909, liabilities in excess of resources	$1,413.01
Dec. 31, 1910, resources in excess of liabilities	408.46
Gain in 1910	$1,821.47

For the following year the showing is still more favorable to the County:

Dec. 31, 1911, resources in excess of liabilities	$3,415.01
Dec. 31, 1910, resources in excess of liabilities	408.46
Gain in 1911	$3,006.55

Thus in two years the balance sheet was changed from $1,413.01 against $3,415.01 in favor of the County, a net gain of $4,828.02.

The 1912 record is not complete, but the business of the year thus far includes the recall, May 1, 1912, of $5,000 of the outstanding County bonds, with the incidental saving of $200 annually for interest. This, with the $208.67 interest received on bank deposits, which the present Board was the first to demand, make a permanent saving of over $400 annually.

The retiring member, Hon. Wellington H. Eastman, first called to the Board by appointment in 1909 to fill the unexpired term of the late Hon. Adelbert Delano, is a candidate for re-election for the full term, and the above record of the County finances during his incumbency, seems to be abundant reason for his receiving the support of the voters of the County.

Tuesday evening the Brownlee and Reed Comedy Company played the popular melodrama entitled "The Texas Cattle King" at Centennial Hall to a good audience. There were eleven in the company and all good stage performers. They gave an open air band concert at noon and again in front of the hall before the entertainment.

The Grange held their regular meeting last Saturday evening. They had quite a lot of business, such as selecting committee for the County fair, etc., after which a good program was enjoyed. They are planning for an entertainment to be given by Mrs. Mary Bailey Bartlett of Roxbury, Mass., to take place one evening during the 4th week of September.

Dr. B. F. Roseman, who came here three or four years ago from Boston to take the place of Dr. F. H. Packard, is going to move away. He sold his residence to John Porter a few weeks ago. He has sold his automobile and they are having an auction of household goods this Thursday afternoon. Dr. Roseman has had a large practice here and won many very warm friends, and the community regret his departure. He is making the change on account of his health and also his wife's health, and is planning to go to Oregon for that purpose.

Good Roads.

On every side the good roads bond issue amendment, which is to be voted upon at the September election, is receiving the commendation of public officials of the State as well as men in every walk of life. The opinion is expressed that its good effect will be especially noticeable in farming communities and small villages, as it will open up to the tremendous summer tourist business, sections which have been out of reach of this immensely profitable traffic, owing to poor railroad and steamboat connections, and most important of all, bad roads.

Governor Frederick W. Plaisted has emphatically endorsed the bond issue proposition and is preaching it everywhere he speaks.

Hon. William T. Haines, Republican candidate for Governor, has come out flat-footed for the plan, and is likewise talking it throughout the State; also other well-known men in the several political parties.

The fact that the money is to be equitably distributed among all the counties of the State, and that the bond issue is to be financed entirely by the automobile tax without a cent of extra taxation upon the State, is considered one of the most desirable features.

The good roads advocates of Maine now number many thousands and their ranks are being swelled daily by hundreds of others from all sections of the State.

BETHEL.

Fined for Thoughtless Damage.

A hearing was held in Bethel, Friday morning at the office of Herrick & Park, before Trial Justice Bennett of Gilead, in regard to property destroyed on E. S. Kilborn's land at Songo Pond. It seems that an automobile party from Massachusetts, now stopping at East Bethel, spent a day at Songo, using Mr. Kilborn's ground as a picnic place.

This was directly in front of his cottage and land which he is continually improving. While there, the parties hacked and cut into a splendid pine tree and finally left as a memento their initials.

Mr. Kilborn ascertaining the names of the persons, decided that it was advisable to make an example of them and so give warning to other thoughtless ones that they cannot destroy the property of other people.

A warrant was issued against the parties and they were summoned here to answer charges. At the hearing they were found guilty and fined $21.06 and departed much wiser it is hoped, in regard to the laws of the State.

Mr. Kilborn says, "I have always allowed parties to picnic and camp on my land on the shore of Songo Lake. I am perfectly willing and glad to have them do so if they will exercise the same care regarding fires and the mutilation of trees and shrubbery that I do myself, but when they peel the birches, cut their initials on the trees and otherwise mutilate them, or otherwise damage property, I propose in the future to prosecute them to the extent of the law."

Lovell.

In her splendid environment of forest clothed hill and plain, her silvery ponds and purling brooks, her emerald fields and sunlit valleys, with her charming lake and the grand old mountains that encircle her, she presents a beautiful, a magnificent picture that thrills one with admiration and delight.

When Yama, the mighty giant of the frozen north, with magic wand touches here and there the leaves of the foliage we stand as it were in an enchanted garden.

Under her wintry mantle of frost and snow that hides many a seam and scar, the monotony of color broken by the growths that have shed their foliage, and the dark living green of the pine, and under the wintry sunlight the lofty peaks of the eternal hills, shining like burnished silver, we look forth upon a scene beautiful and inspiring.

And the crowning sheaf of her glory is when the clouds roll up upon the glowing canvass of the west in all their regal splendor. The divine artist with brush of beauty has tinted their several parts with hues and colors that outrival that magnificent covenant of peace that God wrote on the dark scroll of the storm.

Under the subtle influence of this splendid environment it creates in our hearts a deep and abiding love for God, home and country.

A portion of the road from Twin Bridges over Crooked river to the Corner coming to Norway from Harrison unquestionably is indictable. The citizens of Otisfield are taking big chances of getting into trouble. The road has been in this condition all summer and the officers of the town have been notified of its condition and neglected to repair the road and cut bushes to make passage over it reasonably safe. Next week there will be many teams and autos coming over this road from Bridgton and Harrison to attend the Fair and it will be lucky if there are not smash-ups to properly which Otisfield will be called upon to pay for. If they escape this they will be fortunate. Better fix the road at once and not take chances.
